SMITH DRAWS LIFE FOR SLAYING OF WIFE

Faubus Seeks Solution Or Stay In Jail

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UP)—A source very close to Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today the Arkansas chief executive was "ready to go to jail" if he and President Eisenhower cannot find a "reasonable solution" to the explosive Little Rock integration fight.

The source told United Press that Faubus has prepared a plan to present to Eisenhower as a way to ease the present crisis in the Arkansas state capital.

Faubus came to Rhode Island in the belief that if Eisenhower and top advisers reject the plan they will agree to at least a modified version of it.

Seeks Order Suspension
The governor's plan, the source said, was based on getting a suspension of the federal court order calling for immediate integration of Little Rock schools.

If the court order is suspended, then Faubus would make every effort to gain integration in the schools at the earliest practical time.

Faubus received no advance assurances that the President would accept it, the source said, but flew to Rhode Island with the hope some solution would be found that would be reasonable.

The governor was not planning to give up his fight which he said has been motivated by a desire to preserve peace.

Situation Unchanged
The situation was unchanged as Faubus left Little Rock Friday. National Guardsmen still remained on duty at Central High, where Negroes have been refused permission to enter in violation of federal court orders.

Bristol Crime Decided By Bucks Court

By BOB REINHARDT
Courier-Times Staff Writer

William R. Smith, Jr., the 28-year-old former Levittown man who shot and killed his wife, Ethel, in Bristol early in the morning last September 9, was pronounced guilty of first degree murder in Bucks County Court yesterday and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The finding of the court and sentence were announced by President Judge Edward G. Biester as Smith stood before the bench with his two attorneys. Wearing a dark blue suit and a blue and silver tie, he listened calmly. But, as Sheriff C. LeRoy Murray and two deputies led him from the court room, bound for the Eastern State Penitentiary in Philadelphia, a third had to follow to return the hat the prisoner had left on a chair.

Pleaded Guilty
Judge Biester handed down an opinion, prepared for himself and Judges Edwin H. Satterthwaite and I. Louis Rubin, pronouncing Smith guilty of first degree murder. He had pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Smith killed his wife, and with the same gun shot and injured Mrs. Helen Songer, 28, at Mrs. Smith's apartment, at 1800 Farragut Ave.

Smith had made the second degree murder guilty plea through his lawyers, J. Leslie Kilcoyne and Myron W. Harris.

The three judges, in the written opinion, reviewed the facts of the case as revealed in the trial.

Premeditated
They rejected the plea of the lawyers that it was not a premeditated murder because Smith was under the influence to alcohol and he could not contemplate a murder, and that he was not lying in wait to shoot his wife. "His whole story of the occurrence," the judges wrote, "reveals a well conceived plan to kill his wife. In our opinion his conduct is not one of a person (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Police Cite Klansman In School Blast

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Police Chief Douglas Hosse today quoted a member of the Ku Klux Klan as saying he and John Kasper had dynamite in a house two days before a Nashville grammar school was blown up.

A check of the house failed to turn up the explosive, Hosse said.

Hosse said a Charles Reed, who traveled around the city in a car bearing Klan markings, said he and Kasper hid the dynamite in an "old house."

Hosse said when he and FBI investigators went to check the house Friday they failed to uncover any dynamite. Officials quoted Reed as insisting he did not know how the dynamite got out of the building.

The $500,000 Hattie Cotton grammar school was destroyed by a dynamite explosion early Tuesday morning after the first day of Nashville's "gradual" desegregation program became bogged down in racial violence.

Police also were questioning an unidentified man turned over to them by the FBI who was reported to have "some information" about the school dynamiting.

Officials refused to identify the man, nor would they reveal what comments, if any, Kasper made in connection with Reed's statement about the hidden dynamite.

Kasper is being held in jail on a charge of inciting to riot. Bond has been set at $2,500.

Nashville police went back on a normal eight-hour shift after working 12 and 14 hours a day in the midst of the city's racial troubles.

Children began returning to classes in five public schools which now have 11 Negro children in the classes but absenteeism was still heavy.

Yardley Fire Hits Building

Fire damaged an unoccupied building at the corner of Main and Afton Sts., Yardley, late last night.

The fire was started from outside the one-room building formerly used as a barber shop and the Yardley Fire Company limited the damage to the rear of the building.

Chief John Ziaylek, Yardley Fire Company, said the cause of the fire was unknown.

Members of the fire company put in extra time after the fire cleaning up their equipment to put it back in shape for the Bucks County Firemen's Association parade at Southampton, this afternoon.

Bristol Borough Officials Hunt St. Ann's Arsonist

By JIM GOODMAN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bristol Borough police and fire officials are today investigating their second arson fire within five weeks.

St. Ann's Convent-School building on Jefferson Ave., near Pond St., was the most recent arson victim early this morning.

Vincent Faragalli, Bristol Borough detective, is heading the investigation of the fire that damaged the library room of St. Ann's Convent-School on Jefferson Ave., near Pond St.

Few Blocks Away

It was just five weeks ago, early on the morning of August 9, that flames destroyed the Conco Chemical Co. warehouse on Jefferson Ave. and Canal St., just a few blocks from the convent.

This morning's fire was not as serious but if it had gone undetected a little longer, it could have resulted in heavy property damage and the loss of life.

Gasoline Found

"This was definitely the work of an arsonist; there's no doubt about it," declared Bristol Borough Fire Chief Clifford Hagerman.

Backing up Hagerman's opinion are two bottles which had contained gasoline found near the

Jaunty Hoffa C Of C Picks Predicts Win 4 Directors

DETROIT (UP)—Jaunty Midwest Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa predicted today he will beat "those three old men" who are running against him for the presidency of the giant union.

The outspoken Hoffa said he was not worried about reports opposing candidates have discussed merging forces in an effort to wreck his chances.

Thomas J. Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' local and an anti-Hoffa candidate, said there has been "an attraction for a merger" between himself and the other two contenders, Rep. John F. Shelley of San Francisco and Thomas R. Hickey of New York.

Hoffa, two-fisted Detroit labor leader, said he already has more than half the delegates to the international Teamsters convention in his corner.

C Of C Picks 4 Directors

Four directors-at-large were elected to the Greater Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce today.

Named to three-year terms were: Samuel Farruggio, Francis J. O'Boyle and James D. Wilson. William Henwood was named to a two-year term.

District Directors

Elected as district directors were:

Charles Lucisano, Levittown, was fined $200 for drunken driving this week in Bucks County Court.

William Mackensen, Lower Makefield-Yardley, three-year term.

William S. Erwin, Middletown Township, one-year term.

Edwin Johnson, Newtown Borough and township, three-year term.

Donald Siegfried, Robert Rockhill and John Catzkin acted as judges of election.

Two Fined, One Jailed For Drunken Driving

William F. Fellows, 48 Elm Lane, Elderberry, Levittown, was fined $200 for drunken driving this week in Bucks County Court.

He was arrested in Middletown Township by Patrolman George Paul.

Also arrested in Middletown Township for drunken driving, Morris Bernstein, 57 Upland Road, Upper Orchard, was fined $200.

Amando Rivera, of King Farms, Morrisville, arrested by Tullytown Patrolman Pat Coia, was sentenced to two months to a year in jail for drunken driving.

118 Families Flee Mystery Trench

FARNWORTH, England (UP)—Public works crews and firemen manned pumps around the clock today to dry a vast flooded trench that has destroyed 17 dwellings, damaged 14 others and forced 118 families to flee their homes.

An emergency police command post set up at the Flyde Street area said the hole, now 40 feet square and 20 feet deep, had stopped spreading. A spokesman said it still was too early to discover any explanation for the mysterious opening of the ground.

The police, using walkie-talkies, patrolled the perimeter of the hole to warn residents of any possible new danger.

Mrs. Vedan Quegan, whose grocery was the first building destroyed by the hole, said it started as a small crack in Flyde Street and kept growing and growing.

Heavy rains Friday filled the hole with water 14 feet deep, delaying any investigation until sometime next week.

Borough authorities believed a defective sewer may have undermined the street, causing the surface to collapse. Other officials said it might have been an abandoned coal mine caving in.

However, officials found no records to show whether there once were coal mines in this Lancashire area of the British midlands.

The collapsing earth destroyed several storm sewers and forced police to cut off gas and electricity to the area. Most of those evacuated were put up by friends or relatives, but others were forced to spend the night in emergency shelters.

Mrs. Quegan said the whole thing was a "terrible shock." She said she and her husband first saw the hole when they got up Wednesday morning.

Development Group Gets Promotion Aid

The state Commerce Department announced today that the Bucks County Development Committee, Doylestown, has qualified for a $14,462 matching fund grant.

The committee has raised an equal amount on the local level. J. Eric Jones, Industrial Development Bureau head, will present the formal grant agreement to committee representatives in Doylestown Monday night.

The funds will be used for general promotion of the county to attract new industry to the region. The department has approved this outline of promotion.

Good Evening!

It's the humidity.

The sky's full of it, as all perspiration brows will testify. Just like summer again — and hey, it's still IS summer and will be until Monday a week when at long last autumnal equinox arrives.

Big afternoon and evening in Southampton as the Bucks County Firemen's association hold its annual parade. Well sir, the weatherman said the showers were to be showered by noon.

What you'll be noting most elsewhere in Lower Bucks during the p.m. will be the parade of lawnmowers. Simply amazing how the brown has become green again.

One more muscle-stiffening, back-breaking piloting of the grass-cutters should nearly do it. Then you stand by for the falling leaves.

Phillies drop another close one to the Redlegs, 8-7. That's all.

Let's get the football season started. We're anxious to see if Penn is going to be as good this year as the experts think, after that series of devastating seasons, and if the Eagles will be as bad as some of their exhibition games are indicating.

Also the raccoon coats are supposed to be making a comeback. It'll be interesting to know whether they're really as ludicrous as we remember 'em from the much publicized "em-roaring 20's."

The speed limit will be 100 miles an hour a few years hence, says an expert. Maybe now's the time for drivers to start slowing down to get used to the idea.

A thing of beauty is annoyed forever.

If you're driving during the weekend, be mighty careful, won't you?

Go to church tomorrow.

Elvis Parts With Buddies

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Elvis Presley took issue with two of his musicians who said they had quit because they were "underpaid."

"I feel like they were hired out from under me," Presley said.

The swivel-hipped entertainer said he would "miss" Bill Black and Scotty Moore. But, he added, "there are plenty of musicians around begging for work."

"I don't believe Scotty and I could raise more than 50 bucks between us," Black said in announcing the resignations.

In announcing their resignations, both Black and Moore expressed admiration for Presley. But they said whereas the singer has prospered they have not.

"He promised us that the more he made the more we would make," Moore said. "But it hasn't worked that way."

Monday's Deadline If You Want To Vote

Democrats out-registered the Republicans in Bucks county, 2,393 to 2,055 during the traveling registration period from August 12 through September 11 — the last day for traveling registration.

The total county registration however, as of today, with Monday afternoon set as the deadline for registration to be eligible to vote at the November election, is 67,516 Republicans; 45,235 Democrats; 3032 no-party; and 771 independents.

During the traveling registration period the grand total registered this year numbered 4,605, including the 2,393 Democrats; 2,055 Republicans; 100 no-party, and 57 independents — all this compared with a total of 16,500 registered by the traveling registrars last year, Presidential year.

According to Robert F. Detweiler, chief clerk of the Bucks County Registration Bureau, the total number of eligible voters for the 1956 November Presidential election was 16,500. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

The Vacation's Over

Buchanan School To Open Monday

The James Buchanan School, Haines Road, Levittown, will open 9 a.m. Monday as announced previously, according to Dr. Guy F. Eberhart, superintendent of Bristol Township School.

Dr. Eberhart said workers are feverishly laying floor tile in the last of the 28 classrooms in preparation for the delayed opening. Other township schools opened Sept. 5, but work on the new Buchanan school was delayed by a labor dispute.

The superintendent said that "unless something unforeseen happens we will be ready to open Monday." He explained, however, that only the classrooms will be ready. The cafeteria and all-purpose room will not be finished, and work will still be needed to complete the halls.

There will be lights, water and toilet facilities, he said. Faculty members moved in books and supplies yesterday.

Pin On Cards

Dr. Eberhart requested that parents pin four-by-five cards on first and second grade children. The cards should indicate their names, addresses of the children as well as their bus stop and room number if the parents know them.

New bus stops have been added for children in the Oaktree Hollow section.

Additional Stops

These additional stops are: bus four — Overbrook Lane and Oaktree Drive, 8:45 a.m.; Openwood Lane North and the Drive, 8:43; bus 20 — Oval Turn Lane South and the Drive, 8:45 and Orchard Lane and the Drive 8:47; bus 24 — Old Spruce Lane North tial election in Bucks county was 66,557 Republicans (67,516 this year as of today); 41,832 Democrats (45,235 as of today); 3,111 no-party (3,032 this year as of today); 736 independents (771 this year as of today).

Monday Deadline

If you have not yet registered to vote in November you have until Monday from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. to register at the county registration headquarters in the Scheetz Building, second floor, opposite the Courthouse. That is the deadline for all registrations for the coming election. The largest single day's registration work by the traveling registrars was the last day — Wednesday — when a total of 495 were registered — 299 Democrats and 196 Republicans.

Middletown Tops

The greatest number of votes registered by the traveling registrars in any one district was Middletown Township, Lower No. 4 — 188 Democrats and 150 Republicans. Next came Warminster Township No. 2 (Lacey Park), 111 Democrats and 56 Republicans.

Results of some of the larger Bucks county districts during the traveling registration are as follows:

Middletown Township (6 districts), 328 Democrats, and 289 Republicans.

Lower Southampton Township (5 districts), 105 Democrats and 99 Republicans.

Warminster Township (2 districts), 44 Democrats and 36 Republicans.

Morrisville (4 districts), 163 Democrats and 52 Republicans.

Warminster Township (3 districts), 196 Democrats and 135 Republicans.

Quakertown Borough, 19 Democrats and 15 Republicans.

Bristol Borough, 381 Democrats and 31 Republicans.

Bristol Township, 472 Democrats and 333 Republicans.

Wm. Smith Given Life In Slaying

whose mind was so bemused by the influence of intoxicants that he did not know what he was doing.

They termed the murder "a cool and calculated scheme developed by the defendant and upon the nurtured notion of doing away with his wife because of their domestic difficulties and because of her refusal to live with him."

"We have the impression that he resorted to alcohol merely to raise his courage to the point of permitting him to consummate his planned crime," the judges said.

They referred to testimony that Smith bought the gun and obtained bullets in Philadelphia the day before the murder, and that he drove to his wife's home and parked the car a block away as he opened a window to enter and await her.

"It is not our understanding of law," the judges said, "that in order to constitute murder while lying in wait the shot must be fired or the blow struck from the place of concealment and ambush."

Smith had testified that he bought the gun to scare his wife and that the friend, from whom he got the weapon, suggested putting bullets in it.

The judges explained that for first degree murder they had the alternative of sentencing death or life imprisonment.

"Except for the difficulties with his wife, the defendant has a record of but one prior arrest," they said, "for a minor assault and battery. Certainly he is not a habitual criminal, nor was the present murder committed for financial gain."

"Likewise we are convinced the killing took place while the defendant was under great emotional stress . . . Although we are convinced that the degree of intoxication . . . was not such as to make him incapable of conceiving an intent to kill, we do believe that he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor in some degree at the time of his crime."

"It is our opinion," the judges said, "that sufficient mitigating circumstances exist to justify us in fixing the lesser of the two penalties."

Smith shot his wife in the back and in the head as she started down the stairs from her second floor apartment that fateful Sunday morning. He shot Mrs. Songer at the same time, then went to his car and shot himself.

The judges noted that Smith moved to Levittown with his wife in Nov., 1953. They were married in June, 1951. Their marital difficulties began in May, 1955, the court noted.

Labor Day, Sept. 3, Smith helped his wife move into the Bristol apartment. Friday, Sept. 7, the Smiths met at the Harris and Wood law office, Langhorne, seeking to straighten out their domestic difficulties.

Neshaminy Sets Single Ticket Plan

Year-round activity tickets for Neshaminy Junior-Senior High School projects are being distributed to school pupils.

The plan permits students to buy a single ticket to attend a variety of athletic and social functions during the school year at Neshaminy Junior-Senior High School.

A Dollar More

The junior high plan will admit students to 25 events. The senior high plan will cost students a dollar more than the junior high ticket but will cover admission to the senior and junior class plays.

Harry Franks, physical education director at Neshaminy High, reports the plan will permit students to purchase admission to five home football games, 13 home basketball games, four nights of music by the school band and choruses, the fall movie and football dance, the New Year's Eve party and dance and the spring movie and dance.

Down Payment Due

A down payment on the activity ticket is due this week.

Franks points out the activity ticket eliminates several fund collection drives during the school year and represents a saving of about 50 per cent for the students.

The activity ticket sales will be managed by students in each homeroom.

Convent-School is a four-story building with a large basement. Chief Hagerman said gasoline was also used to set fire to the warehouse on August 9.

The Bristol fire chief reported he would call in Bucks County Fire Marshal Leonard Roberts, of Trevese, and the fire investigator of the Pennsylvania State Police to aid in the search for the arsonist.

The fire alarm was sounded at about 12:45 a.m.

Peter Caro, 413 Jefferson Ave., Bristol, just opposite St. Ann's, reported his daughter saw fire escaping the convent building and called him. He raced to a nearby fire box to spread the alarm.

Chief Hagerman pointed out that arson fires "are no easy job to solve." He said "public indifference" makes that job tougher.

The Bristol fire chief said many persons, rather than get involved in an arson investigation, will keep quiet when they see persons acting suspiciously near the scene of a fire.

Fire companies at the scene included: Bristol 1, 2, 3, 6 and Consolidated fire companies.

Toll Commission Has 'Mardi Gras' Auction

Auction fever bit over 300 persons yesterday who turned out for the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission's sale of luxury items and articles collected instead of tolls. 800 Items Picked By Crowd Of 300 At Span Offices

By KAY BLINCOE
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Yesterday's auction at the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission was a carnival — a carnival ending an era of luxury spending in the Morrisville-based operations.

Approximately 800 items valued when new at $12,500, were sold at auction for an estimated $5,912.50. Part of the articles were accumulated by a former commission and deemed "not needed by the present board." Other items were collected over the years instead of tolls.

Over 300 persons gathered on the commission's driveway expecting a carnival, or the nearest thing to it. They got their carnival.

Crowds knotted around the auctioneers (the Brown Brothers of Doylestown), others lounged on chairs, desks, or cabinets placed in the lot for auction. The whole was dominated by a 12 by 16 foot oriental rug draped majestically from a second-story balcony.

The rug and its rubber under mat later brought $400.

A station wagon pulled up in the September heat. Its occupants opened the rear deck and set up exclusive soft drink sales. Success was immediate.

"Listen to the prices they're getting," observers said. "A dollar and-a-half for a butter dish," a man said. "You'd better not catch my wife buying one at that price," he said determinedly. A blonde near him snatched up a canister set for $4.50.

A dog on a leash tangled around a desk leg and looked helpless. His mistress bid $9 for a leather brief case. It sold to a man for $10.

Other items were: pressure cooker, $13; ice bucket, $9; wooden salad bowls, $5; a polaroid camera, $65; a radio, $31; a typewriter, $70; and a sound movie projector (the auctioneer said had been used "about once," sold for $270. An extra $25 got the buyer the projection screen. Buying was fast and heavy. The sale started at 1 p.m. and ended four hours and 20 minutes later.

The auctioneer droned on. A copper chafing dish sold for $10; a desk lamp for $13. Silver plates and other silver ware (some bearing the initials of the span agency), sold for an average of $1.75.

The crowd loved it all. A jello mould left with a happy hunter for $1. A rolling pin and pitcher sold as a set for $1.75. Mustard glasses brought $2. Three wheel chairs brought a total of $155.

The luxury items, stored for several years in what the commission called its "trophy room," dwindled. Articles left with the spanmen when motorists lacked needed toll funds were paraded out.

A ball-point pen went for $1.25; a watch for $5. A quart of oil netted 50 cents and a hydro-electric auto jack brought $10.50. Two "Ike" jackets and another coat were auctioned off as a unit. One, lettered "Ike Williams Boy's Club," an "Ike" Army battle jacket, and a suit coat all went for a total of 50 cents.

UN Condemns Russia's Acts In Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)

—The United Nations General Assembly by a 60-10 vote, with 10 abstentions, early today adopted a new resolution condemning Russia's brutal suppression of last year's Hungarian freedom revolt.

The resolution, sponsored by the United States and 36 other countries, also named its retiring assembly president, Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand, to seek Soviet and Hungarian compliance with previous resolutions. They demanded Russia get its troops out of Hungary and permit free elections.

The vote was hailed as a resounding victory for the West, confronted with stern Communist opposition and an attempt by Asian "neutralists" to water down the resolution.

Tops Original

It topped the margin on the original condemnation of Russia's Hungarian action, voted last Dec. 12. Then the tally was 55-8 with 13 abstentions.

In today's vote, only the nine-nation Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia opposed the resolution. Nine members of the Afro-Asian groups and Finland abstained. South Africa was absent.

The Afro-Asian abstainers were Afghanistan, Ceylon, Egypt, India, Indonesia, Nepal, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen.

Prince Wan said after the assembly session that he planned to go to Moscow as the first step toward obtaining compliance with the previous assembly resolutions.

India had suggested that instead of such a plan Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld—once spurned by the Hungarians—should accept Budapest's invitation to visit there.

New Design for Blue Ridge School

The Clara Barton Elementary School, to be built in Blue Ridge, Levittown, is designed around two courtyards. Classrooms open out onto the two center courtyards or exterior courts. The school, to be built at a cost of $711,000 is planned for completion by next September.

Confidential Lawyer Ends Defense Case

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Defense Attorney Arthur Crowley, concluding final argument in the Confidential trial, told the jury its decision would be a history-making event in the first criminal libel trial of a national magazine.

"I ask you to remember," he said yesterday before court recessed for the week end, "that if you find my clients guilty, you will be taking a precious piece of liberty from the Constitutions of the United States and California."

Freedom Of Press

As the trial moved into its seventh week, Crowley argued that freedom of the press was involved in the indictment against Confidential Magazine.

"If this magazine can be suppressed," he warned, "so can other magazines and newspapers."

He then waved a score of "girlie" magazines before the five-man, seven-woman jury. They included nude pictures of Anita Ekberg and Simone Silva. One contained photos of a scantily-clad Jane Russell.

"Do you ever see any nude or semi-nude or scantily-clad girls in pictures in Confidential?" Crowley asked.

"Why hasn't the district attorney prosecuted the publishers of these magazines? For political reasons? For Hollywood reasons?"

Deputy Dist. Atty. William L. Ritz said he will make his rebuttal summation Monday, with the case scheduled to go to the jury late Monday or Tuesday morning.

Cool And Dry For L. Bucks

Cool, dry weather was predicted for most of Pennsylvania today, as relief from the humidity the state endured the past few days.

The highest temperatures were expected to range from the mid and upper 70s in the northern portions to low 80s in extreme southeastern areas. Fair and mild weather was anticipated tonight with lowest temperatures in the low 50s throughout the state, except for the low 60s in southeastern portions.

their votes and I'll count mine," he said. "I know from telegrams and other sources that I have the vast majority of delegates pledged to me."

"If those fellows added up all the votes they claim to have, we would find 3,300 delegates at the convention instead of 1,885."

"This is a race of a young man against old men. At the end of the game, they'll be panting and I'll be calm. I do this running around 365 days a year. They are doing it in spurts to get a $50,000 job and then they'll go back to sleep."
